Student Induction, Learning Level Assessment, and Learner Categorization – Management Department

The Management Department organizes a well-structured Student Induction and Orientation Program at the beginning of each academic session to welcome and integrate new students into the academic and cultural environment of the University. These programs were conducted successfully for the academic years 2023–24 and 2024–25, with the objective of familiarizing students with the curriculum structure, evaluation system, code of conduct, institutional facilities, mentor system, and extracurricular activities. Eminent speakers from industry and academia were invited to address the students and share insights on career readiness, discipline-specific trends, and personal development.

The sessions also included interactive talks on student wellness, anti-ragging guidelines, and career guidance. Detailed documentation such as the event report, official invitations and thank-you letters to the guests, student attendance records, and glimpses of the event through photographs are systematically maintained. These records serve as evidence of student engagement and institutional support during the transition phase into higher education.

In line with its inclusive academic practices, the department follows a formal Standard Operating Procedure (SOP) for the identification of slow and advanced learners. This SOP is implemented at the beginning of the academic year through a structured Learning Level Assessment Test conducted for all first-year students across programs like MHA, MHP, BBA, BCA, and B.Com (Hons). The assessment is designed to evaluate foundational knowledge, language and analytical skills, and subject-specific readiness.

Based on their performance, students are categorized into three groups: slow learners, average learners, and advanced learners. The categorization data is documented and shared with faculty and mentors to personalize academic support.

Slow learners are provided with additional academic support through remedial classes, doubt-clearing sessions, and peer mentoring. They receive extra guidance in foundational concepts, and their progress is tracked regularly through internal evaluations and faculty feedback. On the other hand, advanced learners are encouraged to engage in higher-order learning tasks such as research projects, leadership roles in academic clubs, and participation in competitions or certificate courses beyond the syllabus.

The assessment test results, categorization records, SOP document, and action taken reports for the identified learners are maintained as institutional evidence. These measures reflect the department's proactive approach toward addressing academic diversity and supporting individual learning trajectories from the very beginning of the academic journey.

Policy for Slow and Advanced Learners

Background:

Students basically differ from one another in terms of cognitive development as well as affective attainments and thus some students are slow in learning while others learn at an advanced pace and level. NEP-2020 underlines the fact that a good education institution is one in which every student feels welcomed and cared for and where a safe and stimulating learning environment exists. Of late there is an increasing emphasis on making teaching and learning process student centric and inclusive, with quality and equity. Thus there is a pressing need to formulate a policy in which all students- both slow learners as well as quick and advanced learners thrive and are able to achieve required levels of fruitful learning which is accomplished by assessing the abilities of students in the following manner: -

1. Identification of Slow and Advanced Learners:

a) Formal method

For newly admitted students, based on their previous academic records and observation of activities and brain storming sessions during the initial Induction/Orientation days, the students may be categorized into advanced learners and slow Learners. In subsequent semesters the identification may be more systematically based on;-

i. University Examination Results
ii. Internal Assessment
iii. Performance in Extra and Co-curricular Activities

b)- Informal method

It is, however, possible to identify slow and advanced learners through an informal process of observation as well.

The student commonly called a slow learner is one who cannot learn at an average rate from the instructional resources, texts, workbooks, and learning materials that are designed for the majority of students in the classroom.

The most obvious characteristic of a slow learner is a limited attention span compared to more able students. To keep these students actively engaged in the learning process requires more than the usual variation in presentation methods (direct, indirect), classroom climate (co-operative, competitive), and instructional materials (films, workbooks, co-operative games, simulations).

Other immediately noticeable characteristics of slow learners are their deficiencies in basic skills (reading, writing, and mathematics), their difficulty in comprehending abstract ideas, and most disconcerting, their sometimes unsystematic and careless work habits.

Advanced learners, on the other hand, are the students who understand a taught topic relatively fast than the other students in the class and attain high scores. They have more potential and talent than the others in the class. These students are with better academic understanding, as well.

2. Thrust areas of Policy for Slow learners:-

- Orientation and Induction Progarmme at University and Faculty level for freshers
- Identification of slow and advanced learners by formal and informal methods
- Group formation of slow learners and activities thereby under monitoring by advanced learners
- Bridge course for first year students
- Remedial classes
- Personal counselling
- Provision of simple notes and interesting course material
- Teacher-Guardian/Mentor Mentee schemes
- Providing all need-based facilities in Departments and Libraries

3. Instructional Strategies and Interventions for Slow Learners:-

A. Bridge Course

A bridge course for newly admitted students is to be conducted every year before the commencement of the first semester classes. The main objective of the course is to bridge the gap between subjects studied at Pre-university level and subjects they would be studying in the University. The syllabus for the course is to be framed in such a way that equal importance is given to both- the concerned discipline subjects and personality development, which includes soft skills, sports and cultural activities.

B. Compensatory Teaching

Compensatory teaching is an instructional approach that alters the presentation of content to circumvent a student's fundamental weakness or deficiency. This may involve modifying an instructional technique by including a visual representation of content, by using more flexible instructional presentations (films, pictures, illustrations), or by shifting to alternate instructional formats (self-paced texts, simulations, experience- oriented workbooks).

C. Remedial Teaching

Remedial teaching is the use of activities, techniques and practices to eliminate weaknesses or deficiencies that the slow learner is known to have. For example deficiencies in basic math skills are reduced or eliminated by re-teaching the content that was not learned earlier. It focuses on basic concepts, develop better study habits, and to build confidence in the students for respective subject. Remedial teaching/class helps to close the gap between what the student knows and what he is expected to know. The instructional environment, however, does not change, as in the compensatory approach.

D. Developing Lessons incorporating Students' Interests and Needs

This helps address the short attention spans of slow learners. Also, these students should be made to feel that some of the instructions have been designed with their specific interests or experiences in mind. Oral or written autobiographies at the beginning of the year, or simple inventories in which students indicate their hobbies, jobs, and unusual trips or experiences can provide the structure for the lesson plans, special projects, or extra-credit assignments in the year.

Varying Instructional Techniques frequently

Switching from lecture to discussion and then to seatwork provides the variety that slow learners need to stay engaged in the learning process. In addition to keeping their attention, variety in instructional technique offers them the opportunity to see the same content presented in different ways. This increases opportunities to accommodate the different learning styles that may exist among slow learners and provides some of the remediation that may be necessary.

Incorporating Individualized Learning Materials

Slow learners respond favourably to frequent reinforcement of small segments of learning. Therefore, programmed texts and interactive computer instruction often are effective in remediation of basic skills of slow learners.

Audio and Visual Contents

One common characteristic among slow learners is that they often learn better by seeing and hearing than by reading. Incorporating films, videotapes, and audio into lessons helps accommodate the instruction to the strategies learning modalities among slow learners. Emphasizing concrete and visual forms of content also helps compensate for the general difficulty slow learners have in grasping abstract ideas and concepts.

Providing Peer Tutors for Students needing Remediation

Peer tutoring can be an effective aid to the targeted teaching objectives, especially when tutors are assigned so that everyone being tutored also has responsibility for being a tutor. The learner needing help is not singled out and has a stake in making the idea work, because his or her pride is on the line, both as a learner and as a tutor.

Encouraging Oral Expression Instead of Written Reports

For slow learners, many writing assignments go un-attempted or are begun only half-heartedly because these learners recognize that their written product will not meet even minimal writing standards. A carefully organized taped response to an assignment might be considered. This has the advantage of avoiding spelling, syntax, and writing errors.

Policy Guidelines for Advanced learners:

(i) Advanced learners are motivated to strive for higher goals. They are provided with additional inputs for better career planning and growth by offering special coaching for higher level competitive examinations

(ii) Motivating them to involve in research projects to inculcate research orientation and higher studies aspirations
